1	Anything to do with skating, which I beleive would attract kids at night and the noise will carry to us.	Feb 25, 2010 3:16 AM
2	the lack of vegetation	Feb 25, 2010 4:27 AM
3	The lack of designated paths or areas for Cyclists and skaters. I have seen several accidents and aggressive behaviors due to this deficiency.	Feb 25, 2010 4:36 AM
4	The seaweed smell	Feb 25, 2010 5:28 AM
5	Exposed to wind. No toilet. No seating.	Feb 25, 2010 6:37 AM
6	over development instead of a peaceful environment to counter the motor cars on marine parade!	Feb 25, 2010 11:27 AM
7	I very much like the reserve and nearby paths, walkways etc. I enjoy walking around the site and (with many others) enjoy the space in an otherwise heavily populated, busy section of the foreshore. It may well be that the larger parcel of land to the south of the BP Petrol Station on to the Canal would be a more appropriate space for a skate park and any other proposed development that will occupy larger parcels of land.	Feb 26, 2010 3:04 AM
8	People leave rubbish behind after they drink and eat.	Feb 26, 2010 4:45 AM
9	Nothing	Feb 26, 2010 4:52 AM
10	Aesthetically the space is unkempt, forgotten and sorry looking.	Feb 27, 2010 2:10 AM
11	It often looks like a wasteland!	Feb 28, 2010 6:35 AM
12	Not enough bins; backpackers who camp here and leave rubbish behind; people who come to drink and leave their bottles either broken or lying around. Lack of appropriate lighting at night.	Feb 28, 2010 9:30 PM
13	Under-utilised space	Mar 1, 2010 1:08 AM
14	It is not long ago that Port Phillip Council paid J.A. Dodd and Co. a large sum of money to re landscape this area, creating a hill, planting trees, putting in paths etc. It is now a pleasant area for children to play in , dogs to be walked, people to picnic or sit and read. Why it should be taken away from these users and given to a select group of skateboarders I do not know. Also, as you no doubt are aware, this whole area has been back filled. Has an engineering study been done to see if it is in fact suitable for the construction of a skatepark, or would large sums of extra money have to be spent reinforcing the footings? P.P council is developing a reputation for wasting vast amounts of ratepayers money and frankly people are getting sick of it. The Marina Reserve is a relativley small area of land which should be left as it is.	Mar 1, 2010 5:28 AM
15	Rubbish on the rock wall on the beach Smell from the storm water drain near the BBQ Noise from jet-skis and idiots on jet-skis very underutilized	Mar 1, 2010 10:55 AM

26	St.Kilda park area would be a more visible area for all to enjoy watching the kids/adults skateboarding. I was so proud showing off the area in the city which used to be set aside for this activity and think our council should do the same. Our boys are now in their 20's and after to going to several meetings were never contacted or updated. Easy to knock them back but kids want unstructured yet safe activities. Years of going outside of port phillip have shown that the parks are respectful places. Ideal place for a youth worker or skateboard expert to help our kids. Don't listen to small minorities like the primary shool snobs who think skatedboarders = drugs. It is the opposite. Our young men (now 22 and 26) just laugh now at Port Phillip and say they have given up.	Mar 12, 2010 2:00 AM

233	I don't feel safe walking there in the morning, the area is underutilized and vagrants and junkies often doss at the far borders of the reserve, I also worry about the potential needlestick threat that is associated with the night-time occupants. I feel if the reserve was fitted to attract more residents to utilize the area the vagrants may find less occupied parks to frequent.	Mar 19, 2010 7:21 PM

263	The area always seems quite wind swept. The car park is quite large and unattractive. Great opporunities to reduce the amount of carparking and hard surfacing exist here. WSUD should be used where possible. Feels quite Barron as a space.	Mar 26, 2010 3:44 AM
264	there's no skate park	Mar 26, 2010 9:33 PM
265	The view out over any rubbish on the beach and the occasional influx of hoons with noise and mess left behind. At worst, they can be playing doof doof music after midnight if the person who is meant to close the gate doesn't do it.	Mar 27, 2010 5:56 AM

286	That the marina side of it is barb-wired off. The security of the boats there could be handled better -- that the public cannot enjoy that part of the shore is a shame.	Apr 21, 2010 12:55 AM
287	Its present barren environment,no attempt to landscape it to provide shade or (even) windbreak. the adjacent car park is makes it look utilitarian to visitors. (Give the Reserve a real make over with well-nurtured landscaping, no hard surfaces or over-designed patterns, natural rather than human-made. This should be a passive environment that is evolving rather directed by design. Use the initial proposal by a Landscape architect (at the first workshop) as a guide rather than a prescription for the Reserve. Perhaps we should be thinking of the Reserve as the 'exterior room' of our own residence. A place where the users can claim 'ownership' rather than simply feeling like a visitor. A 'connection' of sorts is to be present, this includes emotional responses to views, well-being,safety and general 'ambience'. Provide basic facilities for senior people and those with some form of disability (perhaps a toilet within reasonable walking distance approximately 100 - 150 meters from any direction as part of the landscaping of the Reserve (NOT like the one in Cantani Gardens!).
