Purpose

Community Gardens provide much more than just the opportunity to grow food locally. They sustain community spirit and foster community connections in a public space that residents share and collectively care for.

With population growth and growing demands for the use of existing open space, the use of land for the purpose of valid recreational and community use must be planned and considered against other competing demands. Council recognises the social and recreational value that community gardens provide across the municipality, however it is important to ensure gardens are safe, risks have been identified and mitigated and that there is equitable community access to these valued and valuable community resources.

Establishing a community garden takes considerable planning, collaboration and engagement. Responsibilities extend to a sustained level of effort and commitment in managing a garden including administering an incorporated community group. It is critical, in establishing a community garden, that there is enough commitment from a cross section of the community to ensure the long-term benefits are realised.

Scope

This document articulates the responsibilities of all stakeholders involved in licensed community garden projects, including responsibility for obtaining funding and resources and the management of risks. It further considers the types of governance structures required to support the ongoing management of licenced Community Gardens in our municipality.

The Guidelines provide a transparent process in which to consider requests for the establishment of a licenced community garden on council owned or managed land.

It includes two gateways that applicants will be required to proceed through.

The gateways provide checkpoints at which council will consider and determine:

1. Whether the site is suitable for use as a licenced Community Garden
2. If the site is suitable, a second phase of assessment will consider if proposals are well considered, able to be managed and if they are an appropriate use of the community's resources.

These guidelines are underpinned by a series of principles aligned to outcomes objectives of the Public Space Strategy. These will inform the ongoing management of valued community assets, and where required, an approach for a gardens cessation.

Sources of influence

In developing these guidelines, the City of Port Phillip acknowledge and draws influence from the City of Melbourne Community Gardens Policy, The City of Darebin Communal Food Garden (Community Garden) Assessment Guidelines and the City of Bayside Community Gardens Policy.

Licensed Community Gardens on Council Owned or Managed Land

Across the municipality, licenced or leased Community Gardens are generally provided as shared community spaces with additional gated access for members. Such gardens contain a series of plots that are both allocated and shared. Each garden within the network is managed by incorporated groups (Community Garden Groups) or in some circumstances are attached to leased community facilities.

Council will consider the viability of new, and will manage existing licensed community gardens, against the principles outlined in these guidelines.

Other Types of Gardens that do not Require a Licence

Council has well over 30 productive gardens ranging from gardens in nature strips (verge plantings) and raised planter boxes in public open spaces. These gardens are not considered in these Licenced Community Garden Assessment Guidelines. Those gardens include:

- Verge Gardens

Verge Gardens are garden beds established on nature strips, footpaths or within road reserves. They may be managed by an individual or an informal group of residents through voluntary community stewardship. Verge gardens are fully accessible to the broader community and have no restrictions or controls around access to, or gathering of their produce.

There are existing Verge Guidelines supporting the community stewardship of public spaces. People gardening on verges have a duty of care to the broader community in considering and managing risks including health risk from contaminants, trip hazards and maintaining public safety.

- Garden Plots within Public Open Space

There are a number of raised garden beds in Council's parks and reserves. These are not licenced, or fenced and are fully accessible to the broader community.

These gardens are managed by a group of volunteers and interested parties through informal Garden Groups and are installed as part of Council's Parks and Open Space upgrades. Requests for garden plots within public open space are considered through community consultation and on a case by case basis, when undertaking upgrades or redevelopment of public spaces. Council considers such installations where there has been an identified recreational need in the local area through Council's 'Public Space Strategy' or specific park master planning process. Such areas will be good for growing, will not impact maintenance requirements and will complement other activities on the site.

- Gardens on Private Land / Land Owned and Managed by Other Authorities

A number of gardens are on land owned by private individuals, organisations or authorities.

Within Port Phillip a number of gardens operate on church, school or on housing estates. Applications are also made for sites that are privately owned, such as vacant land, that may be waiting on another use.

In these circumstances, agreements must be directly negotiated between gardeners and landowners.

Principles for Licenced Community Gardens in public open spaced

The following principles support the emerging objectives of the Public Space Strategy and provide a framework for how Council will manage and consider future requests for all Community Gardens. Laneways can also be included for these requests.

Our public space network caters for more people in a higher density city

- Sites are deemed suitable for use as a community garden.
- Sites are not in a neighbourhood already supporting a community garden or within proximity of a community garden.
- Council does not have other requirements for that area of land.

Our public spaces are places for people

- Community Garden Groups will advance the important role these gardens perform in embedding local community connections.
- Community Garden Groups will promote a broader use and purpose for community garden site as a multi-purpose facility and gathering place. This includes reporting on activities hosted for the neighbourhood which promote social inclusion.

Our public spaces improve our community's health and wellbeing

- Community Gardens are welcoming, accessible and inclusive of the broader Port Phillip community rather than providing exclusive access to a specific membership group.

Our streets connect and expand our public space network

- Proposed sites will not be in a neighbourhood already supporting a community garden or within reasonable proximity of a community garden

Our public spaces contribute to a more resilient and sustainable city

- Sites will have access to adequate and sustainable water supply and sufficient sunlight
- Garden design will describe how design mitigations will be implemented, in response to risks associated with soil contamination
- Gardens will improve sustainability outcomes

Our public spaces are effectively delivered, managed and maintained

- Community Gardens are effectively governed and self-supporting
- There are clear roles & responsibilities between Council and Community Garden Groups
- Community Garden Groups are responsible for the proactive consideration and management of risk

Garden Assessment Gateway Principles

- There will be two “gateway” steps that applicants for a licensed community garden must pass.
 - Gateway One – assessment of the suitability of a proposed site, including consideration of other Council or community usage priorities for use and other gardens in proximity, including the management of existing demand for those gardens.
 - Gateway Two – assessment of implementation plan, including assessment of need, governance and management, fair and transparent processes for access to plots, plans to encourage community engagement and social connection, risk plan, sustainability and licences and permits.
- If both gateway steps are passed, then the application will proceed to Council for approval.

Responsibilities for Licenced Community Gardens

Council will not allocate Council funds to build new licenced Community Gardens. Community groups are able to apply for a grant, through Council's Grants programs, if they are able to meet the criteria of those grant programs.

- Consider improvements to existing facilities
- Provide advice on whether planning permits are required in relation to proposals on private land,
- Develop user agreements that consider applications on a case by case basis, specific user needs, site considerations and constraints.

- Provide advanced notification to users in circumstances where a redevelopment was to occur that would impact on the operation of the garden.
- Conduct a fair and transparent process to revoke licences or remove gardens, when disused, not adequately maintained or abandoned.

- Obtain and maintain Public Liability Insurance with a minimum cover of $20 million and insurance for any chattels, fixtures or contents within the Council property.
- Build the garden, carry out ongoing maintenance and ensure the upkeep and replacement of infrastructure as required, including the management of composting.
- Undertake the management and governance of formal groups which will include:
 - the fair and transparent allocation of new spaces to community gardeners
 - providing opportunities for residents not directly involved in the gardens to be provided with access
 - undertake conflict resolution
 - report on numbers of events hosted to foster social inclusion for the neighbourhood
 - acknowledge Council's contribution through communications and media as opportunities arise
